Alarm Clock Plays a Favourite

User Story:

As a proud owner of a Loxone system, as per the Loxone default I use the alarm clock to wake up in the morning. This is great for the most part as my lights are slowly dimmed up, my blinds are lifted up just enough to let some light in and the music starts playing when the alarm goes off.

However, I only have two default options on my music system for the alarm, either an alarm sound, which I do not like, or the last played source. The latter is OK, but if I was listening to some heavy metal the previous evening I really don't want to wake up to that.

It would be great if I could have a particular playlist or favourite play as my alarm clock sound in the morning, also really importantly on shuffle as well so I'm not always listening to the same song.

Details:

When mine and my wife's respective alarm clocks go off, in addition to the normal alarm clock features it should also play a room favourite on shuffle through the music server, rather than the default alarm clock sound.

My room favourite is number 1, hers is number 2.

A little extra challenge:

In addition to this, it would be good if the volume of the music server could gradually increase over the course of 30 seconds so it doesn't jump me awake.
